BRYAN STILL ON ENEMY'S GROUND

Introduced to Large Crowd at Albany by David B. Hill.

At Several Manufacturing Town in
New York—Attacked Taft's Labor Record.

HE SPOKE TO FACTORY MEN

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 29.—The feature of Bryan's tour up state was the appearance on the platform here last night of Former United States Senator David B. Hill. It was the first time in several years that Hill had attended such a gathering, so that when he stepped forward as chairman to introduce Democracy's leader, the great crowd rose to a man and wildly cheered.

Hill Praises Bryan.
Hill declared himself in favor of the election of Bryan because, in his judgment, the Democratic presidential candidate is absolutely right upon every contested question in this campaign. "I am for him," said Hill, "because I sincerely believe the best interests of the country will be subserved by his election." His referring to the Republican charge that a panic will follow Bryan's election declared that it would not be a panic, "but it will be a panic on the part of the hundred thousand federal office holders and public officials who will have to surrender their places to the victorious party."

He concluded his encomium of Bryan by saying that "our candidate is your friend. He is my friend. He is the friend of the people. He has been courageous, sincere and a constant friend of labor ever since he has been in public life. He is an incorruptible as he is brave, and can neither be purchased nor intimidated."

The Democratic candidate received an ovation as he arose to speak. He expressed his appreciation of the cordial welcome he had received. He laid stress on the plank in Democratic platform providing for the publicity of campaign contributions before election.

Publicity of Contributions.
"I asked my national committee," he said, "to publish contributions before election and it has done so. I asked our congressional committee to follow the example of the national committee and it has done so. Taft's national committee has promised to publish the contributions after the election when he knows it will be too late to be of advantage to the voters, but the Republican congressional committee has not promised to publish the contributions even after the election. If not, we have a right to conclude that the congressional committee of the Republican party has to receive funds that are too tainted to go into the treasury of the national committee."

Bryan repeatedly referred to Taft's labor record. He declared Taft was the most objectionable public man the laboring men of the country have ever known. "The employees," said Bryan, "presented a petition and asked for a restoration of their wages, but by his decision he said they had no legal right to ask it and he had no legal right to listen to them, but that if they were talking to an employer, the employer might restore their wages; that he could not listen to such a petition, because as a judge his duty was to protect the railroad."

Addressed Factory Men.
In the course of the day Bryan made speeches at Hastings-on-Hudson, Tarrytown, Ossining, Hudson, Renesselear, Schenectady and Troy. Everywhere along the line of travel immense crowds turned out to hear him. He frequently left the train to make speeches.

His reception at Schenectady was notable. Two of his three speeches there were made in the open to employees of the locomotive works and the Central Electric company. He told them the tide was fast running with the Democratic party and that reports from all over the country indicated Democratic victory. He met another large crowd at Troy, from where he left for Cohoes, Utica, Rome, Oneida, Canastota and Syracuse.

the application of the state "guaranty law" and its provisions.

State Officers Already Sealed.
Take for example, the significant action of the banking board and the bank commissioner in refusing to issue a charter to an applicant for a bank to be organized in a town of less than 500 people. The bank commissioner's act was unjustified on any grounds excepting those of political expediency.

However, right or wrong may be this contention, two pertinent facts stand out clearly. The bank went under and its depositors suffered the loss of their money.

London, Oct. 29.—As Roosevelt has not signified his intention of asking special privileges for his hunting trip in British East Africa through diplomatic channels, it is supposed that he will take out an ordinary 250 or 2500 license from the colonial office, under which he will be required to set forth in his handwriting the animals he intends to kill. This means that he will be limited in his kill to 60 antelopes, 20 chevrolets, two ostriches, two egrets and one chimpanzee. Giraffes, wild asses, secretary birds and a number of other species are forbidden to any hunter not endowed with special privileges.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 29.—State Fire Marshal W. F. Nelkirk has submitted his annual report for 1907 to Insurance Commissioner Bell. He says: "I find that during the year 1907 there were reported 1,579 fires to this office, of these 37 were reported as incendiary and 315 of unknown origin. The value of property involved in incendiary fires was $169,443; insurance on same, $66,800; loss over and above insurance, $34,230."

The reason why our business is growing so rapidly is not alone because our prices are so moderate. It is the honest workmanship and dependable materials which brings customers back season after season. Why not let us make YOUR fall suit?

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Court Clerk.
I am authorized to announce candidate for re-election of the Court Clerk of the City of Paducah, Ky., to wit: JOHN R. RILEY, subject to the vote of the people at the election on November 3, 1908.

London, Oct. 29.—As President Roosevelt has not signed his declaration of asking special privileges for his hunting trip in British East Africa through diplomatic channels, it is supposed that he will take out an city attorney in order to win the city printing another term and then used the same influence to have the representative devote his whole time in a vain effort to put the printing contract in the hands of the city clerk; the paper that denounced a sheriff for asking for bids on public work instead of turning it over to that paper at an excessive rate; declares that thousands of dollars have been dumped into this state by the Republican committee. This same paper four weeks ago was proclaiming with glee that the Republicans have no money. But when Bryan saw his bluish—the Bryan who put Standard Oil Haskell in as treasurer of the national committee and Mose Wetmore, of the tobacco trust, as chairman of the finance committee—Bryan said the Republicans would buy the election. That was the cue. Day before yesterday Kern said the same thing about Indiana, and mentioned a man's name, and the man called him a liar before he got through speaking.

The Democrats have money this year. It is time for them to tell the "bums" and "moochers" that the Republicans have money. Then the "bums" will go to the Republicans for money and be refused. That will make them "sore" and they will return to the Democrats and be pleased with cash contributions. O, politics is a lovely study from the inside! But please, please, spring something new this year.

OLLIE JAMES ON NIGHT RIDING.
Ollie James said at Murray: "The Republican party has brought about the condition which now prevails in the dark tobacco district—the hunger, the ragged conditions of the people. The night rider as well has been brought about by Governor Willson's party. The governor should have come here as Governor Patterson went to Reelfoot lake, to restore order, but instead he came with the trust banner."

HON. CHARLES REED.
It is not because he had four times been honored with the highest office in the gift of his neighbors in Paducah, that Col. Charles Reed is mourned today. It is not because he was a soldier; it is not because he was a successful man of affairs. It is because of those traits of character which made it a delight for his neighbors to honor him, that made it possible for him to be a gallant soldier and a successful man in a business that requires constant contact with the public, that he is missed and mourned.

Perhaps, no man confined with illness, ever was more inquired about in Paducah than was Charles Reed. He was missed at his accustomed haunts. Those who missed him felt a loss at his absence.
He was not only possessed of the courage that makes a soldier, and makes one desirable for re-election to a public office; not only was he genial and tactful in his relations to others, but he had a heart that really loved his fellow men. His social attributes were not merely superficial. Distress was always an imperative call to Charles Reed. Particularly were his old comrades in arms the objects of his care and solicitude; but no case of trouble or destitution failed to win a kindness from him. Through a long life he has been known to the people of Paducah, and the true gold of his character has never worn thin by contact in all sorts of weather. He lived just the sort of life that suited him, and almost to the day of his death he was behind the desk in the hotel.

He will be missed as few are missed.

GOVERNOR HUGHES AND THE PEOPLE.

Grady, a Tammany state senator, is reported as saying in a campaign speech, that Governor Hughes "puts himself on a moral pedestal far above the people."
Hughes had broken for Grady, and was regarded as complacent. The fact is, Hughes places himself with the people, the law-abiding, the honest, the law-abiding. As set forth in the crookedness of the president's campaign with the people.

The reason why our Broom Quinine is growing so rapidly is not the cause our prices are so low.
It is the honest workman's dependable materials which customers back season after season.

Why not let us make YOUR suit?

AS TO ELECTORAL VOTE.

(Kansas City Star.)
Will the president of the United States be elected November 3?
He will not. The people in each state will merely choose a set of electors of most of whom they have never heard.

What will the electors do?
They will assemble in their state capitals on the second Monday in January and ballot for president and vice-president. Each of these assemblies is called an electoral college. There are as many electoral colleges as there are states. The territories and the District of Columbia have no presidential vote.

Suppose a candidate should die between the November election and the date of the assembling of the electoral college?

The electors would probably receive instructions from a national convention or from recognized party leaders. In 1872, when Greeley, the minority candidate, died after the election, his votes were scattered. Six Georgia electors, for instance, voted for B. Grant Brown and three for Greeley. The Greeley votes were rejected by congress. Thomas A. Hendricks and Brown divided the votes that had been intended for Greeley.

After the voting what is done?
A certified copy is sent by special messenger to Washington. On the second Wednesday in February congress meets to count the votes and to announce the election.

If there is a dispute over the electoral vote of certain states, as there was in 1876, what is done?
In 1887 congress enacted a law providing that if doubtful returns should be sent in, the one should be received which has the certificate of a state tribunal appointed to canvass the vote—that is, it is left to state authorities to decide whether the electoral votes are cast by electors duly chosen.

How are the number of electors for each state chosen?
Each state has as many as it has senators and representatives.

Does the constitution prescribe how electors must be chosen?
No. It leaves this to the states.

Are they not always voted for on a general ticket?
They happen to be now. But a legislature may provide differently. In 1876 the Colorado legislature chose the state electors. Mr. Thomas Watson said the other day that under the laws of Georgia if a ticket receives a majority in Georgia the choice of electors is thrown into the legislature. In 1892 Michigan voted on its electors by congressional districts.

How do states sometimes split their electoral votes?
Occasionally a popular elector will receive enough complimentary votes to elect him even if his fellows on the ticket are defeated. Sometimes mistakes in marking ballots will result in a divided electoral vote in a close state.

What determines the date of the national election?
In 1845 congress prescribed that it be held on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November. Before that time some states held elections on other days.

Does a tie in the electoral college elect unknown?
The insurance provides that above and above is receive a majority of votes the elector is elected.

The report of votes the elector is 505 votes. Into the House, every involved, 22 candidates only the insurance thereon.

Total loss, $2,500 vote?
Total loss $201,715. A majority of each state casting mation as to determine the officers upon this course.

The general impression among the officers and enlisted men and posmen is that the great majority of the murderers of Captain Rankin are now held close prisoners and that their work here is rapidly drawing to a close.

No information has as yet been secured as to when and where it is the intention of the officers to take their prisoners. Twenty-one more were brought in by the scouting parties.

Shortly after he had left camp on a long "hike" to Troy, Major J. B. Horton, of Memphis, reported to Colonel Tatum over the telephone and asked permission to continue his march to Obion. This permission was granted, and in giving Major Horton his orders, Colonel Tatum said:

"Shoot any man you see with a mask on, without calling him to halt, and shoot to kill."

Information had reached the camp that masked horsemen had been seen in the neighborhood of Obion and hence the orders.

Among the important witnesses here who will, if he has not already done so, testify before the grand jury is Walter Pleasant, a former resident of Obion county, but now a citizen of Mobile, Ala.

It was in the first case of night riding in this county, the burning of Burdick's fish docks at Samburg on the night of April 11, that Mr. Pleasant came in unpleasantly close contact with the night riders.

He was camping near the fish dock at the time in a small plank hut, and was aroused from his sleep by the night riders, who demanded that he come out. Mr. Pleasant was heavily armed, and throwing open the window of the hut warned the marauders that he would kill the first man who offered him personal violence.

Some of the night riders' masks had become disarranged. They made no attempt to adjust these masks when Mr. Pleasant peered straight into their faces.

Mr. Pleasant was born and reared in this county, and from boyhood has known almost every citizen by sight or personally living within its confines. He undoubtedly recognized some of the riders on the night of April 11.

 eral buildings. Fire companies Nos.
 1 and 4 extinguished the blaze.

Old Homestead Horehound Cough Drops

they're the best remedy we know for those slight, but annoying coughs, which almost all of us have these early fall days. Our grandmothers knew their business when they said: "Horehound for light coughs because it's effective yet harmless, being free from drugs; add a little sugar to make it taste good." Old Homestead is the kind grandma built her reputation on.

WHAT CAUSES DANDRUFF.

Greatest European Authority on Skin Diseases, Says It's a Germ.

The old idea that dandruff is scales of skin thrown off, through a feverish condition of the scalp is exploded.
 Prof. Unna, Hamburg, Germany, European authority on skin diseases, says dandruff is a germ disease. The germ burrows under the scalp, throwing up little scales of cuticle, and sapping the vitality of the hair at the root. The only hair preparation that kills dandruff germs is Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Not only cures dandruff, but stops falling hair and permits a luxuriant growth. Delight-

ROYAL SUPERSTITIONS.

It is only the ignorant and unlearn-ed who are superstitious, but even such a practical person as the German emperor is apparently not without a certain amount of superstition.
 He has always been careful that the ancestral cradle of the Hohenzollerns should be used for each infant member of his family in succession.

This cradle is over two centuries old, and is of curiously carved black oak. It is supposed to protect the baby who sleeps in it from convulsions and other childish ailments.
 Italy has also a remarkable superstition. It is believed that dire misfortune will befall the present monarch if the chamber of the dead king be interfered with till at least two generations have passed. Therefore the room of the late King Humbert at the Quirinal is shut, no one except members of the royal family being permitted to enter it. Thus it will remain, silent and unused, like the apartment of King Victor Emanuel, King Humbert's father, which is just as it was at the time of his death, some 30 years ago. —Tit Bits.

Europe's Richest Royal Family.

It is not generally known that the imperial family of Russia is the richest royal family in Europe, and derives its vast wealth from three sources:
 the state treasury, the imperial domains (formerly church lands) and the so-called "cabinet properties." A writer in Harper's Weekly gives some interesting facts. The state treasury pays out $7,000,000 per annum for the needs of the imperial house, principally for the maintenance of the palaces and the officials and servants attached to them.
 The reigning empress, for example, has an allowance of $100,000 per year, and the dowager empress the same. Every child born to the czar receives from birth to the age of 21 nearly $20,000 a year, while the heir to the throne receives annually, in addition to the maintenance of palaces, $50,000. Daughters receive a dowry of 1,000,000 rubles when they marry.

In Police Court.

Patrolmen Lige Cross and William Johnson were on the scene a little too quick to catch a crap game in the loft of a stable yesterday at noon, for according to the statements of the negroes, the game was just starting when Mr. Cross poked his head through the hatchway and to use crap game vernacular, "caught" the dice before the negro, who wanted to "shoot a nickel," was "faded". As a consequence, nine happy smiling dandies walked out of police court

PAY TEACHERS BETTER.

The scarcity of teachers, of women teachers, is but the further working of the influence which sent men out of this profession. For women, too, are finding greater rewards in business life. We know of women teachers right here in St. Paul who have in the summer vacation equaled their salaries by taking up a business venture temporarily. Such experience means a surrender of teaching tomorrow. Moreover, the preparation for teaching runs through three years' requirements. And then the salary is $40 for ten months. Whereas, the stenographer, after six months' study or less, can command $40 for twelve months, and in three years, if she has merit, has outtopped the highest salary schedule of the local teacher.
 If the cities — St. Paul and Chicago — intend to maintain a school system which shall serve the people must pay the teachers salaries, somewhat similar to those commanded in the business world. —St. Paul Dispatch.

WHEELS WILL GO ROUND IF TAFT IS ELECTED TUESDAY

The National Association of Manufacturers, through its organ, American Industries, has just completed a canvass of its 3,000 members throughout the United States in nearly every line of trade to ascertain the country's commercial status twelve months after the panic. The canvass was not made to serve any political purpose, and the forthcoming election was not mentioned, but the members of the association have taken advantage of one of the questions to declare that prosperity depends upon the election of Taft.

The canvass was made by means of letters sent out two weeks ago. Four questions were asked of the members relating to the exact condition of trade at present, the percentage of increase in business in the last ten months, the possibilities for future improvement and any suggestions which might serve to better future conditions. Everybody answered the last question by suggesting that Taft be elected.

A few of the suggestions for the future, with the firms suggesting them, are as follows:

The Woodward Iron company, Woodward, Ala.—"Elect Taft."
Alabama Consolidated Coal & Iron company, Birmingham, Ala.—"The possibilities for the iron trade in 1909 hinge on the election of Taft as president and the ability of the railroads to finance their needs."

Hardie-Tynes Manufacturing company, Birmingham, Ala.—"If the Republican ticket is elected we believe the outlook is bright for a good business."

The Baltimore Bridge company, Baltimore, Md.—"Elect Taft. The Democrats had the opportunity of a lifetime and sold their birthright for a mess of pottage."

Lowell & Engell, lumber, Mangor, Me.—"The only suggestion we can make in regard to increasing the general prosperity of the country is that we must all do our utmost to elect Mr. Taft. We believe that the election of Bryan would be a national calamity from a business point of view."

Marshall Electric company, Boston.—"If Bryan is elected we shall probably have a setback for a year or more, as our business depends largely upon new building undertakings, which are supersensitive to confidence."

Lowney Chocolate company, Boston.—"I think the outlook for the year fairly good. If we elect Taft we may by a year from now be enjoying good business."

The Atlantic Works, East Boston.—"Elect William H. Taft president. The election of Mr. Bryan will, in our opinion, prolong business conditions indefinitely."

Portland Iron & Steel company, Boston.—"We believe that the manufacturers and merchants are now only awaiting the final outcome of the election, and if a Republican administration is continued on a sane and conservative basis, prosperity for everybody is assured."

Interlaken Mills, Providence, R. I.—"We consider the trade possibilities for the year are favorable. The election of Mr. Bryan would be a serious blow to all kinds of business and very nearly criminal when the character and fitness of Mr. Taft are taken into consideration."

The Diamond Mills Paper company, New York.—"The business outlook is rather encouraging and from present indications we think that if the Republican party is successful in the coming election there is no doubt there will be a considerable increase and a good and stable business."

J. & C. Fisher, piano manufacturers, New York.—"With the election of Mr. Taft we think trade possibilities for the coming year will rapidly get back to normal conditions and that the best industrial years this country has ever seen are before us."

ROSS-Kish chique & Mrwl ho v d e Welsbach company, Philadelphia.

"General prosperity will be promoted by the election of the Republican candidates and the administration by business men at the head of industry."

INHERITANCE TAX

COURT OF APPEALS UNANIMOUSLY UPHOLDS THE LAW.

Penalty of 5 Per Cent On All Devises in Excess of $500 Declared Constitutional.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 29.—Kentucky's new inheritance tax law, imposing a penalty of 5 per cent on all devises in excess of $500, was upheld by the court of appeals in an opinion written by Judge Settle. The opinion was handed down in the case of Armilda Booth's administrator against the commonwealth on relation. Two other cases, involving the same point, were also passed upon in the same opinion. The case has been hard fought and is regarded as important, as it will be an additional source of revenue when the estates, which are bequeathed in Kentucky, are required to pay taxes. Just how much revenue will be derived from this source is not known, as there is no way of telling just how much property is passed by will or inheritance during the course of a year. It must be considerable, however, and it is probable that the state will get some thousands of dollars every year in this way.

In fighting the law those opponents of it contended that the law was unconstitutional in that it did not conform on the section of the constitution which requires all taxes to be uniform. It was also contended that the law itself, which was passed in 1906, was defective in that it did not specify who should pay the tax, whether the estate or the devisee.

All these points were taken by the judge in his opinion upholding the law which was contended in by the whole court which heard the case. Judge Settle holds that the act is constitutional, as the Constitution provides for a special tax and this falls under the head of a special tax. He also holds that the law imposes the tax upon the devisee, who must pay it to the state, and that it is not to be paid out of the estate proper.

Judge Settle says it is not the province of the court to determine the wisdom of the law, but simply to consider it from a legal standpoint, and looking at it in that way he finds that it is sound and will stand. The legislature, he says, has the power to pass such a law and the court has nothing to do but construe it.

TAFT WITHOUT A PEER SAYS ROOT

To Carry Out McKinley and Roosevelt Policies.

Dwelt Upon Issues in State of Ohio
—Declares Bryan a Theorist.

HE SPEAKS IN CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, Oct. 29.—Secretary of State Root spoke to several thousand persons at Music Hall here. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Citizens' Taft club. In a parade which preceded the meeting above five thousand men participated.

Root was introduced by Robert Reynolds, president of the Citizens' Taft club.

Root in his speech first took up the alleged dissensions in Ohio, the Foraker matter being first, the negro question second and the liquor question, a purely local issue, third. He urged that if these dissensions existed as reported they did, they should be laid aside for the greater duty of American citizenship. Either one of the things which affected these three elements were but drops of water in the greater issues which made up the campaign.

The climax of the speech was a review of the public career of Taft and was received with the greatest enthusiasm by the audience. He declared that Taft was better prepared than any other man to succeed to the presidency and to carry out the policies of McKinley and Roosevelt. As an executor and as an administrator he declared Taft was with out a peer.

Great bits of sarcasm were hurled at the Bryan theories as he took them up in turn.

He said: "Shall we elect inefficient men to our legislature, and depend upon the initiative and referendum? Shall we guarantee our bank deposits by a tax upon the banker, depositor and borrowed, rather than prosecute the dishonest banker?

Shall we close our factories and bankrupt our merchants by reducing the tariff to get rid of the trusts, or shall we prosecute them and make them be good?

"Shall we place in the hands of an executive officer in Washington the sole destiny of any part of the tariff to be lowered or raised as he desires?"

"Shall we elect to office a man of experience or a man of theories?"

RAILROAD NOTES

A staff meeting of the officers of the Illinois Central railroad was held today in Memphis. Master Mechanic J. H. Nash left early this morning. Superintendent A. H. Egan and other officials passed through early this morning. Paducah will be the headquarters for the wrecker instead of Princeton, and G. F. Field, and T. J. McCarty, in charge of the wrecker have removed to Paducah. The wrecker has been away from Paducah nearly eighteen months.

A "Suggestion Box" has been placed in the shops for the employees to mail any suggestions for the betterment of the railroad shops. The mail will be collected every day, and considered by the officials.

News of Theatres

"La Belle Russe."

"La Belle Russe", (the beautiful Russian) which will be presented at the Kentucky Thursday night, has been receiving flattering press notices. The play is one of Belasco's best productions and is well staged. Miss Ethel Fuller, in the title role, is an actress of ability and is well supported by Warren Cogan and a good company. Miss Fuller appeared last year in Anna Karenina. The story of "La Belle Russe" is a dramatic one, dealing with the love adventures of Geraldine, "the Beautiful Russian", who is a minister's daughter but departs from her early training.

River stage at 7 o'clock this morning 1.4, a stand since yesterday morning.

River men report a big rise in the head waters of the Tennessee. There are now 4.8 feet in the Tennessee and if the rise in the upper Tennessee is sufficient to make a six foot stage, the Clyde and the Kentucky will both resume their regular trips. The Richardson is now running in the place of the Clyde and the Dunbar in the place of the Kentucky. Capt. Porter, who has charge of the worst of Tennessee River Packet, is anxious to get the Clyde back in the regular service on account of the large health of cotton and cotton seed well as be handled in the upper basin. The Kentucky has been FAKs for repairs and is in fine condition.

End the Clyde is now on the harbor repairs, but will be let in from the last of this week in first condition.

R. D. Dunbar will be due tonight at Riverport, Ala., and all way landings. She will go on to Brookport and unload and receive freight and will return tomorrow evening. The Dunbar will receive freight at the wharfboat until Saturday evening at 6 o'clock when she will leave for the Tennessee.

The J. B. Richardson got away last night for the Tennessee at 8 o'clock with nine cars of freight for Tennessee river landings.

The George Cowling was in port twice today from Metropolis with a big passenger and freight business on each trip.

The Addie left on time this morning for Joppa with all the freight she could handle. She will return this afternoon.

The Indiana arrived this morning from Smithland and will return tomorrow morning. She is doing a big freight business.

The Kuttawa came out of the Tennessee yesterday afternoon with a big raft of logs for Metropolis. The Kuttawa has had a new cabin and new pilot house and has been painted white. She is one of the best little towboats in the Paducah harbor now.

The Cape Girardeau and the big excursion steamer Alton, belonging to the Eagle Packet company, both boats running out of St. Louis, will be brought to Paducah probably the first of next week and tied up at the "Duck's Nest," where the Eagle fleet will winter.

Capt. Bud Mullen, one of the West Kentucky Coal company's pilots, has gone to Golconda on business for the coal company.

GOOD ADVICE

EXAMINE STATE DELINQUENT LIST PUBLISHED TODAY.

Your Name May Appear—Delinquents Are Paying Up Very Rapidly.

It is the earnest advice of Revenue Agent-Husbands that all property owners who have recently been parties to any transfer should study carefully the state delinquent list which is published today for the third time. Even though your name may not appear on the list, the property which you recently purchased may be listed because of non-payment of the state tax on the part of the former owners. In that case it is to your interest to see Mr. Husbands and have the records adjusted without delay, to prevent the sale of your property, for the state's claim constitute a lien on the property, no matter in whose hands it now is, and at the sale which occurs November 16, absolute title will be passed to the purchasers of listed lands by the state. It will therefore be a great deal cheaper and much less trouble to see that the taxes are paid now than to have to extricate yourself from the legal tangle which will be the result of your lands being sold.

If your name appears on the list through error and you have your tax receipts, go at once to Mr. Husbands' office with them and have the records cleared, for it is the intention of the state to absolutely clear the books of these claims. Many of those listed have already paid their claims and, as it is often a troublesome matter to find old papers it would be wise not to delay the investigation of your standing until the last moment, November 15. Mr. Husbands' office is in Legal Row, South Fourth street.

Ant defenders of plants and trees are some of nature's pretty marvels. The Cecropia adonopus is a remarkable tree of South Brazil, widely distributed through the tropics. Its slender trunk is crowned with long leaves at the ends of the branches.

A few active ants run continually along the branches and the leaves, but if the tree is shaken slightly an army of ants rushes out by small apertures ready for a savage assault on the intruder. The ant is the terrible guardian that the tree has retained to protect it from the most formidable enemy, the leaf cutter ant.

The defenders rarely ever leave their retreat, where they live on the small whitish egg-shaped bodies about one-twelfth of an inch long, known as Mueller's corpuscles. These are formed of delicate tissue, rich in proteins and oil, as rations for the garrison of defender ants to feed upon. The curious arrangement by which entrance is made to the hollow stem has been studied by Mr. W. S. Schimper.

one leaf extends nearly to the super-nodal a superficial groove, at whose end is a rounded depression. There the tissue is thin, like a diaphragm in a tube, and it is also soft. The hole by which the ant enters is always pierced at this spot. The ants seem to have made their entrance through the groove originally because it was at the top. In the course of this plant's further development natural selection augmented these natural advantages so that finally the thin, frail diaphragm as it exists today was developed.—Chicago Tribune.

Danderine

GROWS HAIR
and we can PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes:
"As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment, when ladies' occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon to plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One 25-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

ROUTE

OF AFRICAN HUNT IS DISCUSSED WITH MISSIONARY BISHOP.

Break For the Interior Will Be Made at Uganda—Son Kermit Will Be Official Photographer.

Washington, Oct. 28.—While President Roosevelt's plans for his African hunting trip have not been entirely completed some general idea of his expedition was gained today from Bishop Joseph C. Hartzell, for 12 years in charge of the Methodist church in Africa, who spent some time with the president and talked over the trip, in addition to discussing the work of the missionaries in that country.

The general route to be taken by the president when he reaches Africa will be from Alexandria by steamer, through the Suez Canal, across the Red Sea and down the east coast of Africa to the port of Mombasa, the capital of British East Africa.

At Mombasa, the outfit of the expedition, which has been purchased in London, will be assembled and shipped by rail to Lake Victoria Nyanza. The president and his party will make the trip to Lake Victoria Nyanza by rail, stopping off at various points along the route to make hunting excursions into the interior, away from the railroad.

The country traversed by the railway is of the wildest sort, and all kinds of big game are found. The real work of the expedition will not begin, however, until the party reaches the plateau of Uganda, after crossing Lake Victoria Nyanza, where abounds game to be found nowhere else in the world. It is not known exactly how long the president will remain in this region.

The president's party is to consist of his son Kermit, who is to be the official photographer of the expedition, and two naturalists from the National Museum. No other person will be taken from this country. When he reaches Africa he will employ the services of natives and guides. A caravan will be organized for the trip from the railway terminus to the Nile. The naturalists will prepare such specimens as it is thought the National Museum will want.

Whether Mrs. Roosevelt will meet the party at Khartoum will not be definitely decided until the trip is begun.

During the entire trip the president will be on English territory, and the English officials along the route will do everything in their power to assist the party.

Bishop Hartzell said the president expressed the greatest interest in the work being done by the missionaries in Africa. The president promised that during his coming trip to Africa in 1909 he would visit as many of the mission stations as possible. The bishop was asked whether he had asked the president to do some missionary work. He replied that he would like to see the president doing such work, but he had not made the proposal to him.

He Kept at It.

"I am introducing," the peddler began, "a patent electric hair brush—"

"What do I want with a hair brush?" growled the business man. "Can't you see I'm bald?"

"Your lady, perhaps—"

"Bald, too, except when she's dressed up."

"Yes, sir. But you may have at home a little child—"

"We have. It's one month old and quite bald."

"Of course, at that age," said the peddler. "But," he persisted, "may-be you keep a dog?"

"We do," said the business man. "A hairless Chinese dog!"

The peddler dived into another pocket.

"Allow me," he said, "to show you the latest thing in flypaper."

T. & A. CASE

TAFT AND RAILROAD MEN ARE AGREED ON IT.

W. S. Boate, of Order of Railway Conductors, Reminds Order of This Fact.

New York, Oct. 29.—William S. Boate, of Pittsburgh, a representative and legislative committeeman of Division 291, Order of Railway Conductors, has sent out a letter to members of his organization to remind them of how Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Railway Engineers, agreed with the ruling made by Judge Taft in the so-called Ann Arbor case, and in accordance with it was instrumental in having one of the rules of the brotherhood abolished.

The case was heard April 3, 1893. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen were on strike for higher wages on the Toledo and Ann Arbor railway. Acting under Rule 12 of their organization, an engineer on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern refused to handle cars coming from the Ann Arbor road.

Right of Free Contract.

An injunction was asked for against Chief Arthur, ordering him to suspend rule 12, providing for such a sympathetic strike. Chief Arthur accordingly suspended it.

Judge Taft held that the rule violated the interstate commerce law. Judge Taft, however, also held that subordinates enjoyed the right of free contract, the service being terminable at the option of either party, and that the court could not compel the enforcement of personal service against the will of either employer or employee. He declared, on the other hand, that no man should leave his employment at a time or place where by so doing he would endanger life or property.

Chief Arthur's brotherhood cut rule 12 completely from its by-laws, and railroad men perceived that the court was right.

This is shown clearly by the "Locomotive Engineers' Monthly," in its issue of September, 1908, in an article from which the following is an extract:

Taft's Decision Approved.

"That rule 12 was in positive violation of section 10 of the Interstate Commerce law will hardly be questioned by any one. The Ann Arbor case is not one that furnishes the objectionable features through which we may bias public opinion in securing the much desired regulation of injunctions in labor disputes."

Today the great railway brotherhoods discontinue the sympathetic strike, and today the principle laid down by Judge Taft is made a part of their own contracts or agreements without reference to possible disturbances on the part of other employees on the same or other lines.

The Old Joke Revised.

There was a rap on his lordship's door.

"My lord," announced the servant, with a low bow, "the airship awaits without."

"Without what, James?" queried his lordship as he lit another cigarette.

"Without wings, without gasoline, without ropes and without a propeller. We have just been in a collision."

And with an impatient wave of his hand his lordship ordered the airship taken around to the airship without delay.—Chicago News.

RATES ADVANCED

CONDITIONS IN KANSAS DEMAND
ED HIGHER OIL TARIFFS.

Official Tolls of Conditions in Commercial Circles Which Made It Necessary.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Judge Franklin Ferris has concluded the taking of testimony in Chicago in the railroad phase of the government suit to dissolve the Standard Oil company, and announced that the hearing would be resumed in New York next Tuesday.

There are a number of witnesses who will be called by the defense to testify in the adjourned hearing. All of the testimony of the defense must be presented before the examiner before December 1, and the government will be allowed until the first of the year to rebut such parts of the evidence as it wishes to combat.

Three witnesses took the stand in the concluding session, Frank Zimmerman, assistant general freight agent of the Michigan Central road, presented several division sheets showing rates on oil products, each sheet bearing the words "Not to be posted." Special Counsel Kellogg for the government said that he had asked for the state tariff sheets, and not division sheets.

Ignored Standard's Protest.

Edward B. Boyd, assistant to the vice president of the Gould lines, told of conditions in commercial circles which made it necessary, in 1889, for the western roads to agree on uniform rates in traffic to upper Mississippi river points, and testified that oil and oil products were excepted from the pro rating system when it was found that no hardship was worked on the river towns through such exception.

F. A. Leyland, chairman of the southwest tariff commission, which issues tariff sheets for a number of roads, told of conditions in Kansas which led to raising the rates of oil from the Kansas fields to Kansas City and St. Louis. He declared that the Standard Oil company had protested against a raise in the rate of 7 cents on oil shipments, and that the protest had been ignored.

On cross-examination Mr. Kellogg sought to show that the Standard Oil company used pipe lines, and that the increase in rates was immaterial to it.

IRELAND STILL PRODUCTIVE.

Feeds Home Population and England and Exports Its Manufactures.

There are in round numbers 20,000,000 acres of land in Ireland. Twenty-five per cent of this is waste. The 15,000,000 acres of land more or less valuable is used mostly for grazing. Besides feeding for the most part the four and a half million people on the island, these farms produce for export live stock of an annual value of nearly $37,000,000. The export of textiles from the island, largely linen made from home-grown flax, is worth a little more than the live stock. Bacon, dairy products, poultry and eggs exported from the island are worth annually nearly $50,000,000. The three items amount to a total of nearly $170,000,000.

Nearly all of the food products go to England, which owes Ireland for a great many of the hearty breakfasts of bacon and eggs enjoyed there. The textile fabrics go all over the world, much of them passing through the hands of English merchants.

Southern California is larger than Ireland; but our farmers do not produce $50,000,000 worth of bacon, butter, eggs and poultry. We have not much more than a ninth part of the population of Ireland; but we do not produce enough of these products for the home market; and we are farther away from growing flax and converting it into linen to export any part of $60,000,000 worth a year, after using what we need at home. Such figures as these suggest to us what may be done here; how broad a basis for growth and development underlies our section.—Los Angeles Times.

Do not let any one tell you that something else is just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills because there isn't anything just as good. Sold by all druggists.

For Political Reasons.

"But I don't see why I can't take the trip," says the wife who has proposed that her husband allow her to go to Europe alone.

"Oh, of course you can take it if you like," replies the husband, "but you know people will say a great many things."

"But you don't care what people say," she persists, "do you? You surely have trust in me, haven't you?"

"She-sh! Don't say anything about trusts until after election. Don't you know I'm a candidate?"—Chicago Evening Post.

Painters.

The Munich Jugend has discovered five signs by which to detect the school to which a painter belongs: (1) If he paints the sky gray and the grass black, he belongs to the good old classical school. (2) If he paints the sky blue and the grass green, he is a realist. (3) If he paints the sky green and the grass blue, he is an impressionist. (4) If he paints the sky yellow and the grass purple, he is a colorist. (5) If he paints the sky black and the grass red, he shows the possession of great decorative talent.

Nye's Bald Head.

Bill Nye in his earlier days once approached the manager of a lecture bureau with an application for employment, and was asked if he had ever done anything in that line. "Oh, yes," said Bill. Large Majority Will Support the Republican Ticket.

Washington, Oct. 28.—That a large majority of workingmen will vote for Taft, is the opinion of Republican leaders here, on account of the Republican party's record and the speeches and letters of President Roosevelt and Judge Taft, and despite the efforts of Samuel Gompers to deliver the labor vote to Bryan.

Dr. Pierce's Health Talks

The miracle of motherhood is often overshadowed by the misery of motherhood. The great functional changes which are incident to child bearing leave their mark for life on many a mother. Some women offer up their lives as a sacrifice on the altar of motherhood. A far greater number live on in ceaseless misery. Their strength fails, their beauty fades, they have no ambition and no enjoyment in life. To every woman

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Offers escape from the pains and perils of motherhood. Taken during the period of waiting and anticipation this medicine strengthens the body, nourishes the nerves, and prepares the whole womanly system for the coming of baby. It also insures an abundant supply of nourishment for the child.

The mind feels bright and buoyant. There is no anxiety, no dread, but in its place a happy anticipation of the baby's coming, which counts for the future happiness of the child unborn. The use of "Favorite Prescription" makes the baby's advent easy, and gives abundant vitality to nursing mothers.

There is no alcohol or habit-forming drugs in "Favorite Prescription." It is a purely vegetable medicine.

Accept no substitute for "Favorite Prescription." There is nothing "just as good" for weak and sickly women. All its ingredients printed on its bottle-wrapper.

The larger success of doctor or druggist is never won by putting love for the dollar above duty to the sick. Protecting the sick, giving them what they ask for when Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is called for, will enrich him in respect, if it does not swell to the utmost his profits.

THE TALE OF THE
TAINTED TENNER

By O. HENRY.

[Copyright, 1906, by the S. S. McClure Co.]
MONEY talks. But you may think that the conversation of a little old ten dollar bill in New York would be nothing more than a whisper. Oh, very well! Pass up this sotto voce autobiography of an X if you like. If you are one of the kind that prefers to listen to John D.'s cheek book roar at you through a megaphone as it passes by, all right! But don't forget that small change can say a word to the point now and then. The next fine you tip your grocer's clerk a silver quarter to give you extra weight of his boss's goods read the four words above the lady's head. How are they for repartee?

I am a ten dollar treasury note, series of 1901. You may have seen one in a friend's hand. On my face, in the center, is a picture of the Bison americanus, mislabeled a buffalo by fifty or sixty millions of Americans. The heads of Captain Lewis and Captain Clark adorn the ends. On my back is the graceful figure of Liberty or Ceres or Maxine Elliott standing in the center of the stage on a conservatory plant. My references is—or are—section 3588, revised statutes. Ten cold, hard dollars—I don't say whether silver, gold, lead or iron—Uncle Sam will hand you over his counter if you want to cash me in.

I beg you will excuse any conversational breaks that I make. Thanks! I knew you would. Got that sneaking little respect and agreeable feeling toward even an X, haven't you? You see, a tainted bill doesn't have much chance to acquire a correct form of expression. I never knew a really cultured and educated person that could afford to hold a ten spot any longer than it would take to do an Arthur Duffy to the nearest that's all sign or delicatessen store.

For a six-year-old I've had a lively and gorgeous circulation. I guess I've paid as many debts as the man who dies. I've been owned by a good many kinds of people, but a little old ragged, damp, dingy five dollar silver certificate gave me a jar one day. I was next to it in the fat and bad smelling purse of a butcher.

"Hey, you Sitting Bull," says I, "don't scrouge so. Anyhow, don't you think it's about time you went in on a customs payment and got released? For a series of 1890 you're a sight."

"Oh, don't get crackly just because you're a buffalo bill!" says the fiver. "You'd be limp, too, if you'd been stuffed down in a thick cotton and lisle thread under an elastic all day and the thermometer not a degree under 85 in the store."

"I never heard of a pocketbook like that," says I. "Who carried you?"
"A shopgirl," says the five spot.
"What's that?" I had to ask.
"You'll never know till their millenium comes," says the fiver.
Just then a two dollar bill behind me with a George Washington head spoke up to the fiver:
"Aw, cut out yer kicks. Ain't lisle thread good enough for yer? If you was under all cotton like I've been to-day and choked up with factory dust till the lady with the cornucopia on me sneezed half a dozen times you'd have some reason to complain."

That was the next day after I arrived in New York. I came in a $500 package of tens to a Brooklyn bank from one of its Pennsylvania correspondents, and I haven't made the acquaintance of any of the five and two spot's friends' pocketbooks yet. Silk for mine every time.

I was lucky money. I kept on the move. Sometimes I changed hands twenty times a day. I saw the inside of every business. I fought for my owner's every pleasure. It seemed that on Saturday nights I never missed being slapped down on a bar. Tens were always slapped down, while ones and twos were slid over to the bartenders folded. I got in the habit of looking for mine, and I managed to soak in a little straight or some spilled Martini or Manhattan whenever I could. Once I got tied up in a great greasy roll of bills in a pushcart peddler's jeans. I thought I never would get in circulation again, for the future department store owner lived on 8 cents' worth of dog meat and onions a day. But this peddler got into trouble one day on account of having his cart too near a crossing, and I was rescued. I always will feel grateful to the cop that got me. He changed me at a cigar store near the Bowery that was running a crap game in the back room. So it was the captain of the precinct, after all, that did me the best turn when he got his. He blew me for wine the next evening in a Broadway restaurant, and I really felt as glad to get back again as an Astor does when he sees the lights of Charing Cross.

A tainted ten certainly does get action on Broadway. I was almost once and got folded in a little dogskin purse among a lot of dimes. They were bragging about the busy times there were in Ossining whenever three girls got hold of one of them during the ice-cream season. But it's slow vehicles keep to the right for the little book tips when you think of the way we bison plasters refuse to stick to anything during the rush lobster hour.

The first I ever heard of tainted money was one night when a good thing with a Van to his name threw me over with some other bills to buy a stack of blues.

About midnight a big, easy going man with a fat face like a monk's and the eye of a janitor with his wages raised took me and a lot of other notes and rolled us into what is termed a "wad" among the money tainters. "Ticket me for five hundred," said he to the banker, and look out for everything, Charlie. I'm going out for a stroll in the glen before the moonlight fades from the brow of the cliff. If anybody finds the roof in their way there's $60,000 wrapped in a comic supplement in the upper left hand corner of the safe. Be bold. Everywhere he held, but he not bowed over. "Night."

I found myself between two twenty dollar gold certificates. One of 'em says to me:

"Well, old shorthorn, you're in luck tonight. You'll see something of life. Old Jack's going to make the Tenderloin look like a Hamburg steak."

"Explain," says I. "I'm used to joints, but I don't care for filet mignon with the kind of sauce you serve."

"Excuse me," said the twenty. "Old Jack is the proprietor of this gambling house. He's going on a whiz tonight because he offered $50,000 to a church and it refused to accept it because they said his money was tainted."

"What is a church?" I asked.

"Oh, I forgot," says the twenty. "that I was talking to a tenner. Of course you don't know. You're too much to put into the contribution basket and not enough to buy anything at a bazaar. A church is—a large building in which penwipers and tidies are sold at $20 each."

I don't care much about chinning with gold certificates. There's a streak of yellow in 'em. All is not gold that's quitters.

Old Jack certainly was a gilt edged sport. When it came his time to loosen up he never referred the waiter to an actuary.

By and by it got around that he was smiting the rock in the wilderness, and all along Broadway things with cold noses and hot guilets fell in on our trail. The third jungle book was there waiting for somebody to put covers on it. Old Jack's money may have had a taint to it; but, all the same, he had orders for his Camembert piling up on him every minute. First his friends rallied round him, and then the fellows that his friends knew by sight, and then a few of his enemies buried the hatchet, and finally he was buying souvenirs for so many Newportish dish or maidens and butterfly octets that the head waiters were phoning all over town for Julian Mitchell to please come around and get them into some kind of order.

At last we floated into an uptown cafe that I knew by heart. When the Hodcarriers' union in jackets and aprons saw us coming the chief goal kicker called out, "Six, eleven, forty-two, nineteen, twelve," to his men, and they put on nose guards till it was clear whether we meant Port Arthur or Portsmouth. But Old Jack wasn't working for the furniture and glass factories that night. He sat down quiet and sang "Ramble" in a half hearted way. His feelings had been hurt, so the twenty told me, because his offer to the church had been refused.

But the wassail went on, and Brady himself couldn't have hammered the thirteenth into a better imitation of the real penchant for the stuff that you screw out of a bottle with a napkin.

Old Jack paid the twenty above me for a round, leaving me on the outside of his roll. He laid the roll on the table and sent for the proprietor.

"Mike," says he, "here's the money that the good people have refused. Will it buy of your wares in the name of the devil? They say it's tainted."

"It will," says Mike, "and I'll put it in the drawer next to the bills that was paid to the parson's daughter for kisses at the church fair to build a new parsonage for the parson's daughter to live in."

At 1 o'clock, when the Hodcarriers were making ready to close up the front and keep the inside open, a woman slips in the door of the restaurant and comes up to Old Jack's table. You've seen the kind—black shawl, creepy hair, ragged skirt, white face, eyes a cross between Gabriel's and a sick kitten's—the kind of woman that's always on the lookout for an automobile or the mendicancy squad—and she stands there without a word and looks at the money.

Old Jack gets up, peels me off the roll and hands me to her, with a bow.

"Madam," says he, just like actors I've heard, "here is a tainted bill. I am a gambler. This bill came to me tonight from a gentleman's son. Where he got it I do not know. If you will do me the favor to accept it, it is yours."

The woman took me with a trembling hand.

"Sir," said she, "I counted thousands of this issue of bills into packages when they were virgin from the presses. I was a clerk in the treasury department. There was an official to whom I owed my position. You say they are tainted now. If you only knew! But I won't say any more. Thank you with all my heart, sir—thank you—thank you."

Where do you suppose that woman carried me almost at a run? To a bakery. Away from Old Jack and a sizzling good time to a bakery. And I got changed, and she does a Sheridan twenty miles away with a dozen rolls and a section of jelly cake as big as a turbine water wheel. Of course I lost sight of her then, for I was snowed up in the bakery, wondering whether I'd get changed at the drug store the next day in an alum deal or paid over to the cement works.

A week afterward I butted up against one of the one dollar bills the baker had given the woman for change.

"Hello, E35089609," says I. "Weren't you in the change for me in a bakery last Saturday night?"

"Yep," says the solitary in his free and easy style.

"How did the deal turn out?" I asked.

"She blew E17051431 for milk and round steak," says the one spot. "She kept me till the rent man came. It was a bum room with a sick kid in it. But you ought to have seen him go for the bread and tincture of formaldehyde. Half starved, I guess. Then she prayed some. Don't get stuck up, tenner. We one spots hear ten prayers where you hear one. She said something about 'who giveth to the poor.' Oh, let's cut out the slum talk. I'm certainly tired of the company that keeps me. I wish I was big enough to move in society with you tainted bills."

"Shut up," says I. "There's no such thing. I know the rest of it. There's a 'lendeth to the Lord' somewhere in it. Now look on my back and read what you see there."

"This note is a legal tender at its face value for all debts, public and private."

"This talk about tainted money makes me tired," says I.

SONG.

When that I loved a maiden
My heaven was in her eyes.
And when they bent above me
I knew no deeper skies;
But when her heart forsook me,
My spirit broke its bars,
For grief beyond the sunset
And love beyond the stars.

When that I loved a maiden
She seemed the world to me:
Now is my soul the universe,
My dreams—the sky and sea:
There is no heaven above me,
No glory binds or bars
My grief beyond the sunset,
My love beyond the stars.

When that I loved a maiden
I worshipped where she trod;
But when she clove my heart, the cleft
Set free the imprisoned god;
Then was I king of all the world,
My soul had burst its bars
For grief beyond the sunset
And love beyond the stars.

In 1908—Mr. Bryan tells the farmers how to get their just deserts.—McCutcheon in Chicago Tribune.

LEADERS OF LABOR.

New York, Oct. 21.—The action of President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, in sending a circular letter to the various unions throughout the country appealing for money with which "to help the friends and defeat the enemies of labor"—in other words, to support William H. Taft for the presidency—is being condemned bitterly by labor men in this city. Officers of the various locals in New York attack Gompers because of the covert manner in which he is seeking to raise funds to participate in the political campaign when the chief principle of the labor organization is to keep free of political alliances. They are bitter against him because of his apparent desire to influence every member of the union to vote for Bryan, and they are frank in saying that he never has, and never can deliver a single vote besides his own against Taft.

A tour of the delegates to the Central Federated Union, which is the central organization of the unions allied with the American Federation of Labor, is convincing that Gompers' ambition to swing the labor vote will result in a dismal failure. They represent the interference of the labor leader and many of them say that because of that attempt at political domination they will show their independence by voting for Taft. Many of the delegates to the central local organization have been directed to announce that the members of their local union are opposed to political manipulations by labor and they will not contribute a dollar toward Gompers' fund. They served notice to that effect at a weekly meeting.

Unions Refuse Gompers' Plea.

The result of the machinations of Gompers and his efforts to use sledge hammer methods to whip the laboring men into line for Bryan will be that the workmen will vote strictly according to the dictates of their conscience. Republican union men are fighting staunchly for Taft and because of Gompers' methods have won Democrats to their side. James R. Ryan, delegate to the C. F. U. from the Photo Engravers' Union No. 1, who has been bitterly opposed to the proposition of the central body in concurring with the burden of the letter sent out by Gompers, said that his union would not contribute a dollar to Gompers' fund.

"Adherents of Gompers," said he, "are seeking to show that the Republican party never has enacted legislation in answer to the request of the labor unions. In the last two years, since Governor Hughes has been in office, the federated unions have made many appeals to the state legislature for laws, and practically every one of their appeals has been answered. Under the guidance of Governor Hughes the state legislature has enacted more laws aiding labor than all the previous legislatures put together."

Democratic Party Never Helped.

"I know as a fact that mighty few organizations will vote a cent toward the Gompers fund. My organization will not give anything."

Alfred J. Boulton, leading member of the Stereotypers' Union, said that his union would not take any action on the circular. "I fought for Bryan in 1896," he said, "but I am against him this year. The Democratic party never has done anything for the laboring man when in power. No party ever has promised more and done less, and no party has less claim upon the support of laborers than has the Democratic party. If when the Democrats were in power the plutocrats of this country ever were denied anything, I should like to know what that one thing is. The leaders of the Democratic party have betrayed the masses and now Bryan is seeking to harmonize the forces that plunder and are plundered, but he will fail miserably. The people who are lined up behind him now are those who have plundered the laboring people."

Albert Abrahams, of the Pressmen's Union, asked this question: "What's the use of the laboring men contributing a few thousand dollars to the Democratic party when that party will get hundreds of thousands of dollars, if not millions, from the Standard Oil company?" Adolph Krieger, of Local No. 476, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, is bitterly opposed to the action of Gompers. Elias Wolf, of the Cigarmakers' Union No. 90, said: "If other unions are fools enough to get money for Bryan my union won't."

Says Union Won't Vote For Bryan.

Morris Brown said: "I am always man enough to oppose any attempt by the American Federation of Labor to pledge its members to any political party. I have positive evidence that Gompers advocated abolition of the government injunction plank and now wants labor to vote for the weak injunction plank of the Democratic party which never can be put into force. Despite the requests of Gompers the working people never will vote for Bryan."

Victor Buhr, member of the Amalgamated Painters, said: "The cheap painters are being employed for contracts given out by the Democratic politicians of this city. The Democratic politicians fill the taxicabs, driven by strike breakers, with police while a little boy gets shot to death."

"I hope you came out of that horse trade with a clear conscience?" "Yes," answered Si, smiling, "but it kind o' worries me. My conscience is so onusally clear that I can't help feelin' I must o' got the must o' the trade."—Washington Star.

ROOSEVELT'S 50 STRENUOUS YEARS

Yesterday Was the President's Birthday.

His Political Career Has Been One Star Performance Twenty-five Years.

MUNICIPAL POLITICS HIS START

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—President Roosevelt is 50 years old. Twenty-eight strenuous birthdays have passed over Mr. Roosevelt's head since he left Harvard with his diploma in 1880. His twenty-second birthday, the first after his graduation from college was spent in Europe, where he was traveling to recover from the effects of hard study. Upon returning home he plunged at once into the maelstrom of municipal politics, and his twenty-third birthday found him campaigning for election to the New York general assembly. At twenty-four Mr. Roosevelt was known all over the country as a new power in the Albany halls of legislation. At twenty-five he was completing his term in the legislature and had added to his fame through his strenuous work as head of the legislative committee appointed to investigate New York's municipal administration.

Mr. Roosevelt's twenty-sixth birthday found him on the stump speaking in behalf of the Republican national ticket. The previous summer, as chairman of the New York delegation he had opposed the nomination of Mr. Blaine, but when Mr. Blaine became the choice of the convention, Mr. Roosevelt fell into line and worked for the party's candidate's success.

Mr. Roosevelt passed his twenty-seventh birthday on his ranch in the Bad Lands cultivating the acquaintance of ranchmen, rustlers, and cowpunchers, who subsequently were to form the nucleus of his regiment of rough riders.

At twenty-eight he was again in the turmoil of New York City politics. Henry George was a candidate for mayor, Abram S. Hewitt was the nominee of the Democrats. Mr. Roosevelt was put in the field by the Republicans. Mr. Hewitt won.

During his twenty-ninth and thirtieth years Mr. Roosevelt was engaged chiefly in literary work and in hunting big game. During this period of his career he passed many months in hunting the grizzly bears and other fierce wild animals of the west.

His thirty-first birthday found him a member of the United States civil service commission, to which he had been appointed by President Harrison. President Cleveland retained him in office and he continued to serve until 1895.

At thirty-seven Mr. Roosevelt was president of the New York board of police commissioners. Within a month after taking hold of his office he had become at once the best-hated and best-liked man in New York. He overhauled the police department and effectually stopped the police blackmail of saloon keepers. This work kept him busy for two years.

At thirty-nine Mr. Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy. His fortieth birthday, following his strenuous campaign in the war with Spain found him a candidate on the Republican ticket for governor of New York. He was successful in the election and his forty-first birthday found him installed in the executive chair at Albany. At forty-two he was on the eve of his election to the vice-presidency of the United States.

His forty-third birthday he passed in the White House, having succeeded to the presidency the previous month through the death of Mr. McKinley. The question of Cuban reciprocity and the Schley controversy were occupying his attention.

His forty-fourth birthday was his second in the White House. Temporarily beaten on Cuban reciprocity he had laid it aside and was beginning his fight against the trusts. He had just won his first great victory.

the settlement of the anthracite coal strike.

His forty-fifth birthday found him awaiting the result of the coup in Central America, the establishment of the Panama Republic, and in preparing for the extra session of congress which he had called to consider Cuban reciprocity.

His forty-sixth birthday he spent in the White House near the close of a presidential campaign which was to elect him by the greatest majority in history.

His forty-seventh birthday was spent aboard the battleship West Virginia, returning from a southern trip.

His forty-eighth birthday was spent in the White House preparing his general attack all along the line on the trusts by means of the department of justice.

His forty-ninth birthday found him laying the plans for the nomination of William H. Taft, his secretary of war, as the Republican candidate for president.

His fiftieth birthday and has last in the White House, finds the president confident of the election of Mr. Taft as his successor and giving his spare time to preparations for his African hunt.
